

APR 13 1965

FOIAb3b

CPYRGHT

Retired Vice-Admiral William F. Raborn Jr. was named by President Johnson to become the new chief of the Central Intelligence Agency. He succeeds John A. McCone, the West Coast industrialist who became head of the agency in 1961. Mr. McCone has reportedly wanted to return to private life since last December.